The Letters in 'All'

A teacher once gave me some advice, on a test paper all the above is a lot of times the right answer but rarely is it in life. When the claim is 'everyone' or 'always' it usually isn't accurate because there is most likely some exception.

Consider Romans 3:23: "for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God." A continuous person might respond, "Jesus never sinned." While they would be right, they are missing the point of what Paul is saying here.

His point here is many think they are the exception. They lived good enough. They never sinned bad enough. They followed their religion enough. Yet here Paul declared we have not done enough, we have fallen short because of sin

It may not seem like it, but there is an "I" in all. There is a "U" in all as well. No matter how much we ignore it or deny it, sin is there. There is none righteous, not even one.
